Canada Will Not Recognize Referendum 2020 for Khalistan

This month, we have reason to celebrate. No, it is not because of a drop in the number of corona cases reported though that is also true and welcome. But it has to do with a crucial decision taken by our federal government that will have far-reaching impact, mostly positive, on those of us originally from India who have made Canada our home.

Late July, the government of Canada under the leadership of Prime Minister Justin Trudeau announced its decision not to recognize the results of what has been described as Referendum 2020 in favour of creating a separate state of Khalistan within India's Punjab. A spokesperson for Canada's Minister of Foreign Affairs, Christia Freeland, confirmed this in a statement to the media: "Canada respects the sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity of India, and the Government of Canada will not recognize the referendum."

The reaction both in India and Canada has been one of relief and happiness. Punjab's Chief Minister, Capt. Amarinder Singh, described Trudeau government's stance as "exemplary" and he hoped that more countries in the West would follow Canada's example and reject the "secessionist" Referendum 2020. Revocation, Reaction, and the Future of Jammu & Kashmir

A Free Webinar on Saturday August 08, 2020

Here is a rare opportunity to listen to one of the most respected voices in India today, Sushil Pandit, about India’s decision to strip Jammu & Kashmir of its special status. The controversial move had the entire India (the approval rate was an impressive 95%) applauding and much of the rest of the world nodding in agreement. And the usual detractors including sore loser, Pakistan, and sections of the international media, seeing red!

The headline on TV and the frontpages across India blazed the news almost a year ago – ‘Article 370 Scrapped’. The news was in the making for a long time. In fact, ever since this 1949 amendment to the Indian constitution (though it was considered of temporary validity at the time), it has stayed in the books due to a number of reasons. Successive governments in New Delhi lacked the political will amidst a perception that Article 370 was the instrument that kept Jammu & Kashmir glued to the rest of India. It turned out to be exactly the opposite as history would prove later. \(Read more\)

India's New Education Policy to Bring Fundamental Changes to the Sector

The Government of India, under Prime Minister Narendra Modi continues to surprise the nation and the rest of the world by a series of path-breaking decisions. The latest in that vein is a New Education Policy (NEP) for the whole country that deviates dramatically from the old and, according to most experts, failing, model. India's last experiment with modernizing its education sector was in 1986. Since then the world has changed. India has changed even more. It took a modern, forward thinking administration to realize the urgency of getting its educational priorities right if India were to really tap its demographic dividend and become a superpower. Ram Mandir Bhoomi Pujan: A Momentous Occasion

Instead of the millions that would've otherwise thronged the ancient city of Ayodhya, on August 5, only a very select number of people were on hand to witness the historic bhoomi puja of the Ram Mandir. After decades, even centuries of litigation and political wrangling, the temple will now be a reality, leaving millions of Hindus who prayed for this day to come, delighted. The event was celebrated right by Hindus settled across the world.

The momentous occasion was marked on a subdued scale, due to the threat of Covid19 crisis. Ayodhya, the birthplace of Lord Ram, sported a festive look with a million diyas and fervent chants, welcoming yet another history-making event in its millennia long journey. Prime Minister Narendra Modi, in the presence of Hindu leaders, priests, saints and other distinguished guests, said, "We have to join stones for the construction of Ram temple with mutual love and brotherhood. Social harmony was the core principle of Lord Ram's governance."
